Which way to your bright future?

Career Exploration AT HOME

Activity 2

YOUR BRIGHT FUTURE

ACTIVITY 4

No school. No after school activities. No goofing off with friends. Given the current climate of physical distancing, most of us find ourselves with at least a little extra thinking time. The big question we all ponder is...

What will life be like after we finally get rid of this dastardly COVID19 foe?

It can get a little discouraging at times. One way to encourage students is to get them thinking beyond the immediate future to a time when their hopes and dreams will be realized. Keeping their eye on the prize, so to speak.

Students have a job that continues even through this pandemic weirdness. It is to stick with school and learn all they can. Eventually, they will need to find their way in the world of work.

“Hint: Your bright future starts now!”

This is where they will one day find purpose for their lives and find ways to make the world a better place. Sooner or later, they have to find their way from here to there! This activity gives them a place to start thinking about it in a low-pressure, free to dream place.

INSTRUCTIONS: This week's activity sheet invites students to think about four things: who they are, careers they want to explore, steps they can take now to prepare for success later, and a favorite career option.

This activity is part of a career exploration process introduced in my World of Work series of books based on the 16 career clusters (see page 4).
